Course Title: Curriculum Foundations (EDUC 5633 FA01)

Contract Term: August 15, 2024 – December 31, 2024

Course Schedule: Fall 2024 - TBA – Acadia Campus

Employee Group: Acadia University Faculty Association

Course Description: This course is designed to examine the nature of curriculum and the basic principles of the curriculum making process. The nature of curriculum is investigated via consideration of a range of historical perspectives. Curriculum as a field and as a practice is examined through foundational theoretical models. Special attention is given to the role of the teacher and principal and other actors who influence the development of curriculum. The integration of theory and practice and recent innovations in curriculum organization serve as reference points throughout this course.

Only short-listed candidates will be contacted.

Qualifications:

The successful applicant must possess at minimum a master's degree in Education in a related field. Preference will be given to applicants who possess a PHD or who are engaged in a doctoral program in a related area. Applicants should have demonstrated experience developing curriculum in an educational context. Preference will be given to applicants who have research activity related to curriculum development.

Only short-listed candidates will be contacted.
